Call For Papers-Special Session 2

AI-Enabled Entrepreneurship Education and Sustainable Innovation: From Learning to Enterprise and the SDGs

Artificial intelligence (AI) is transforming entrepreneurship education through personalized learning, intelligent mentoring, creative problem-solving, and data-driven business development. This special track explores how AI can bridge classroom learning and real-world entrepreneurial practice while fostering responsible innovation and sustainable enterprise development.

Topics of interest include AI-enhanced entrepreneurship education, generative AI for business model development, human–AI collaboration, entrepreneurial mindset and self-efficacy, responsible AI literacy, AI-supported startup development, green entrepreneurship, circular economy, and AI-enabled solutions to societal and environmental challenges. Research addressing ethical AI adoption, inclusive entrepreneurial learning, experiential and gamified learning, and the integration of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) into educational and entrepreneurial practices is particularly welcome.

The track aims to bring together researchers, educators, entrepreneurs, and industry practitioners to share theoretical advances, empirical findings, innovative pedagogies, and practical applications connecting AI, education, enterprise, and sustainable development. Both conceptual and empirical contributions are encouraged, including interdisciplinary studies and practical case studies.
